At Revlon, we know that slavery, human trafficking, forced labour and servitude (Modern Slavery) is a global challenge for Governments and that companies have a significant role to play in taking appropriate measures and actions to minimize the risks of Modern Slavery occurring in their own operations and supply chains. At Revlon, we have a zero tolerance approach to Modern Slavery of any kind within our operations and supply chain.

Background and Supply Chain

Revlon International Corporation – United Kingdom Branch, is the U.K. branch of Revlon International Corporation, a U.S. corporation. Revlon is a global beauty company that markets, distributes and sells fragrance, skin care and cosmetic products in the United States, the United Kingdom, and approximately 150 other countries worldwide. Revlon is in the process of enhancing its responsible and ethical sourcing practices, including a new Third Party Code of Conduct, a new approach for mapping and prioritizing risks in the supply chain, and new procedures for compliance monitoring, auditing, and developing corrective and preventative action plans.

We are committed to adhering to the highest ethical standards in the conduct of our business, and we endeavor to operate our businesses throughout the world in full compliance with all applicable laws and regulations and with integrity and honesty, and we require our suppliers to conduct their business and operations in accordance with these standards.

Our products and components are manufactured at the Company’s manufacturing facilities around the world and supplied by large, established third party manufacturers that provide similar types of products and components for other global beauty companies. Our contractual agreements with these companies require them to comply with all applicable laws relating to the manufacture, packaging, labeling, supply, shipment and transportation of our products, which includes, among other things, prohibitions on the use of forced labor and human trafficking.

Policies on Slavery and Trafficking

Revlon is fully committed to the protection of human rights and strongly opposes the use of illegal child labor, forced labor, and all other forms of human exploitation and unacceptable treatment of workers. All employees must be treated with respect and dignity and must not be subjected to any physical, verbal, psychological or sexual abuse or misconduct. We will only conduct businesses with organizations that respect human rights and are fair to their employees.

In order to further promote responsible sourcing practices, we have convened a Responsible Sourcing Working Group and developed a new Revlon, Inc. Third Party Code of Conduct.

As stated by our Third Party Code of Conduct:

Revlon, and all of the brands under its beauty portfolio, are committed to full compliance with ethical business practices and all applicable laws and we expect the same commitment from our vendors and suppliers of goods and services, as well as our customers and commercial partners, licensees, third party manufacturers, agents and other representatives, consultants, and other third parties (collectively, "Third Party Partners").

We require that, as a condition of doing business with Revlon, you will strictly comply with this Third Party Code of Conduct, to the extent applicable to our business relationship. We further require our Third Party Partners to take reasonable steps to ensure that this Third Party Code of Conduct is communicated throughout their organizations and made available to all of their employees and subcontractors who will work with Revlon or in connection with our business.

In order to further promote responsible sourcing practices, our new Third Party Code of Conduct (as well as our existing Standards of Engagement) prohibit Modern Slavery in our supply chain and require our suppliers to adhere to applicable wage and benefits laws, work hour limitations, worker freedom of association laws and health and safety laws.

Any material failure to comply with our Third Party Code of Conduct or Standards of Engagement may be considered by us as a breach of the applicable legal agreement or framework between us and our supplier, and may ultimately result in termination of our relationship with the supplier.

As part of our Responsible/Ethical Sourcing Program, we will continue to work with our supply chain partners to develop and implement new and enhanced ways to prevent slavery and human trafficking from occurring in our supply chain.
